

HOLIDAY WEEK IS A HUMMER

Society Has to Work Overtime to Keep Up with the Schedule.

MISS COTTON'S COMING-OUT PARTY LEADS

Home at Forest Hill the Scene of a Most Brilliant Affair, Marking Her Formal Entrance into the World.

It may be due to the Christmas season or possibly to the presence of so many who were only home for the holidays, but society is certainly of the impression that the week just ended was the most enjoyable of the whole year. Family reunions and family dinner parties have been the order of the week, and the season has afforded occasion for those affairs where hosts and hostesses have been privileged to include only those most congenial, regardless of social obligations. The smaller affairs, chiefly of this character, have been numerous and in addition to these nearly every afternoon and evening has afforded gatherings of the most pretentious sort.

The college boys are especially in evidence of late, conspicuous among their most recent fads being their little flat hats and fashion of carrying their hands in their pockets. For these and the girls home from their first term "away at school" the week has been one of the most enjoyable of a future when the former will have "finished" and the latter have been "introduced."

While New Year's day promises to be full, indeed, there are not to be the larger affairs that were promised and expected earlier in the season, which, in several cases, is due to a large dancing party to be given that night in Lincoln, at which a large party of Omaha people expect to be present.

The brilliant reception given at Forest Hill yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Herman Kountze, when she formally presented her daughter, Miss Cotton, was the closing feature of a week replete with smart affairs. The popularity of the charming debutante had placed her introduction among the affairs to which society looked forward all season and its consummation occasioned the gathering, almost en masse, of the feminine members of the smart set. Mrs. Kountze and Miss Cotton received their guests in the reception hall beneath a canopy of spreading palm leaves extending from the bank of ferns and holly, with its brilliant clusters of poinsettias that entirely concealed the great fire place.

Miss Cotton's gown was an intricate creation of tucks, lace and white batiste and she carried American Beauty roses gathered from the masses of flowers that had been sent in by friends. The great hall was hung with evergreens, holly and smilax, to which the red berries and bright crimson poinsettias added coloring. The same effect was carried out in the decoration of the adjoining rooms.

Assisting Mrs. Kountze were Misses McClinck, Holdrege, Hamilton, Baldwin, Swenberg, Bennett, Curtis, Moore, Spurgin, Allen, Peck, Smith, Gertrude Kountze, Lomax, Towle; Mesdames L. L. Kountze and Charles T. Kountze. Following the reception the assisting party remained to supper and in addition to their number the following men were also present: Messrs. W. Coffman, Stewart, Creigh, Dodge, Allen, Pelt, Benn, Haskell, Nash, Cotton, F. Hamilton, Baum, Sam Burns, Heth, Paxton, Colpetzer, Keogh, Millard, Yates, Lindsey, McShane, C. T. Kountze and L. L. Kountze.

Among the most enjoyable events of the week was the dancing party given at Metropolitan club on Thursday evening by Mr. Clinton D. Orcutt, in honor of his daughter, Miss Jennie Orcutt. About two hundred of the younger set, including the majority of the college boys and girls at home for the holidays, were present. The ball room, the reel center of merriment, was festooned with evergreens from corner to corner, while the chandeliers and wall spaces were massed with southern smilax, studded with red holly berries and dashes of scarlet that completed the Christmas coloring. Three college co-eds contributed another attractive feature. There were resting booths furnished in the colors of Yale, Harvard and Princeton colleges respectively and afforded popular retreats and no little pleasant rivalry between dances, owing to the presence of students from each of these institutions. Downstairs, the same bright coloring was in evidence, in the decoration of the stairs, hall and rooms and the many small tables from which supper was served late in the evening.

Mr. Orcutt and Miss Jennie Orcutt were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Beaton and Miss Orcutt. Miss Jennie was a becoming white chiffon gown with trimmings in applique effects. Miss Orcutt's gown was of white dimity with lace insertion, and Mrs. Beaton wore a delicate green silk with trimmings of Duchesse lace and sable. Mr. Orcutt was further assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Warren Blackwell and Mrs. M. E. Blackwell.

The second of the series of assemblies planned for the winter occurred at Metropolitan club on Christmas evening, and was attended by the major part of society, despite the day of Christmas trees, dinners and family reunions. It possible it was even more enjoyable than the Thanksgiving affair, at least the yuletide furnishes greater occasion for gaiety and the presence of those gathered home for the holidays contributed much to the completeness of it all. The entire building was hung with Christmas greens and holly. The ceiling of the ball room was festooned with green rope and the chandeliers massed with the green and its studding of red berries, the lights being shaded with red. The costumes were unusually handsome, and the company which numbered 200 members, included representatives from the oldest and youngest sets.

The third of the large dancing parties of the week and one rendered the more delightful for its being a house affair was given by Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Kennard on Friday evening at their home at Nineteenth and Dodge streets in honor of their daughter, Miss Georgia Kennard. The spacious rooms, which are especially adapted to such affairs, were cleared and hung with holiday green, southern smilax arching the doorways and massing the walls. About 150 guests were present and a long list of waltzes and two-steps enjoyed.

PLEASANT CHRISTMAS PARTY

Omaha and Council Bluffs Families Are Entertained at the Williams Farm House.

Several Omaha and Council Bluffs families were guests Christmas day of the family of Walter J. Williams and his mother, Mrs. Mary Williams, nine miles southeast of Council Bluffs, transportation from the depot to the house being via the hay-rack route. After a dinner that did credit to even the Williams' culinary skill, Mr. W. N. Nason of Omaha gave the interesting history of the lineage of the Williams, Rouse and Nason families, of which those present were descendants. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Nason, Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Nason and family, Mrs. E. V. Barney, Charles Pennoyer, Mrs. Edith P. Pennoyer, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Miner, Ray Miner, Mrs. E. A. Miner of Omaha; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Williams and family, Miss Viola Whistler of Council Bluffs; Mr. and Mrs. John M. Underwood and family, who are relatives and neighbors of the Williams, both Mr. Williams and Mr. Underwood being prominent farmers and stock feeders.

To Stop a Cold.

After exposure or when you feel a cold coming on take a dose of Foley's Honey and Tar. It never fails to stop a cold if taken in time.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.
